Gulf Coast Venture Forum Chooses Kimberly During

CLEARWATER, Fla. (December 12, 2011) - Kimberly During, CEO of K.Tek International Corp. (a financial holding company), has been chosen to join the Gulf Coast Venture Forum Advisory Panel to give perspective from both sides: Investor/Opportunities to invest. Below is a little about the Gulf Coast Venture Forum and our next event. www.gcvf.com

This season the Gulf Coast Venture Forum is excited to offer, in addition to our regular monthly meetings for investors, an open forum component titled “Why invest in SWFL?” These opportunities for entrepreneurs, investors and EDO’s will provide some time to network and to catch an early glimpse at early stage ventures, meet the success stories of mature companies who utilized early stage funding to leverage growth and to discover some real “economic gardening” occurring here in the SWFL region.

The purpose of the Gulf Coast Venture Forum is to promote the success of Southwest Florida’s new and emerging businesses by bringing together the best entrepreneurs, early stage venture capital firms and Angel Investors. Members of the GCVF meet monthly to hear about local investment opportunities, and they also offer informative educational programs presented by seasoned, recognized professionals and business people, providing a place for the sharing and exchange of business and technical experience. Monthly meetings are scheduled October through June each year.
